Community Sergeant Update

PS Stephen Granger

The accelerated easing of COVID restrictions and anticipated further relaxation will see an increase in travel, outdoor socialising, recreation and exercise. As these measures come into place combined with some hopefully better weather there will undoubtedly be an increase in youth related anti-social behaviour in certain towns across the Scottish Borders. Police patrols by Community Policing, SBCAT and our Response Policing Teams to disrupt and detect those responsible has been ongoing and this will continue. I would like to take this opportunity to again ask members of the public to contact police directly to report issues as they occur so that prompt action can be taken.

In this regard I am conscious that those engaged in anti-social behaviour are in the minority and that their behaviour all too frequently reflects badly on their peers who themselves are reluctant to reports matters for fear of repercussions. With this in mind I am keen to increase awareness of a campaign to encourage identification and reporting of ASB which has been launched by Fearless (youth programme of Crimestoppers supported by the Scottish Community Safety Network) on Monday 12th April 2021.

The campaign is based on SCSN's 'The Picture of Anti-Social Behaviour in Scotland' report that was published in 2020, and aims to reassure, educate and empower young people (aged 13-18yrs) in Scotland to talk about ASB and learn more. The campaign will also empower young people to use the Fearless anonymous service to report information or suspicions about crime. The hope is that this will lead to an uptake in reports made to police and further information on those responsible. The campaign is supported by Police Scotland but as always Fearless/Crimestoppers prefer to maintain their independent status in order to maximise public confidence in the anonymous aspect of their service. It is likely to be shared widely through local youth groups and high schools in all areas. Further information is available at www.fearless.org and I would encourage all age groups and particularly teenagers in our communities to take the time to look at this.

Finally, as reported in previous months, several communities in partnership with Police and SBC have established No Cold Calling Zones as a deterrent to bogus callers and unscrupulous traders. As a reminder these zones can be set up almost anywhere, can be set up by anyone willing (community council, residents association, neighbourhood watch group) and the only costs involved are signage. Funding options are available and can be discussed with your local Community Policing Team. I would ask that all local communities again consider being proactive in considering this option as a tool in deterring door step crime. Further information/guidance can be sought by emailing the CPT mailbox at the end of this report.
